

Major Challenges

- Bridging the gap between production of data products and methods for evaluating uncertainties and the use of the data for statistical reporting and indicators
- Quantitative detection of change more important in almost all cases than a collection of snapshots
- Data fusion of unlike data sources – land-cover and land-use data with population and other socio-economic data